

The Geneva Dialogues on Securing our Common Future: Taking forward the UN Secretary-General's Agenda for Disarmament

Disarmament that Saves Lives

Invitation

On 24 May 2018, the United Nations released Secretary-General António Guterres's *Securing our Common Future: An Agenda for Disarmament* in a major policy speech at the University of Geneva. A range of Geneva-based institutions have come together to organize a series of events to engage with policymakers, researchers, and practitioners to take forward the SG's Agenda for Disarmament and build new momentum for comprehensive and integrated disarmament.

These institutions would like to invite you to participate in the second event in the series—'Disarmament that saves lives'—which will take place on Wednesday 15 August from 17.00–19.00 at Auditorium A2 (Pétale 2), Maison de la Paix, Geneva. Light refreshments will follow.

This town hall-oriented event will look at how to take forward the recommendations in the section of the Agenda on 'Disarmament that Saves Lives', focusing in particular on conventional weapon-related issues.

'Disarmament that saves lives' will be facilitated by Glenn McDonald, Small Arms Survey, and feature an informal discussion on a number of substantive issues related to conventional weapons, including operationalizing the Secretary-General's agenda; linkages and gaps between the Secretary-General's agenda and the work of Geneva institutions; and opportunities for moving forward.

To register, send an e-mail to: sas@smallarmssurvey.org with 'Disarmament that saves lives' in the subject line and note in the e-mail body text:

- Name
- Title
- Institution